Russians May See Thousands Of Jews Killed Tonight In A Horrible Massacre.

PLANS MADE TO PROTECT ALL JEWS

Workingmen Decide To Ask An Eight-Hour Day, Despite Threats Of Shutting Down The Fac- tories If They Do.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]
St. Petersburg, Nov. 11.—Forty thousand workingmen today at meetings decided to press their demands for an eight-hour day despite the threats of the employers to close the factories if this is done. The workingmen also took steps to prevent a threatened massacre of the Jews and "intellectuals" this afternoon. It was resolved to protect the Jews and students have organized detachments to guard various parts of the city to prevent an outbreak like that which occurred in southern Russia.

At Warsaw

Warsaw, Nov. 11.—The Jews of this city were thrown into a panic today by the appearance during the night on the doors and window shutters of strange marks. These marks are believed to be proof of fresh anti-Semitic riots being planned and the marks are thought to indicate the houses selected for attack. A deputation of aristocrats left today for St. Petersburg to present the demands of Poland for autonomy.

Pole Appeal to Czar.

Warsaw, Nov. 11.—Representatives of all political parties in Poland at a meeting held in the palace Friday decided to send twenty leading citizens of St. Petersburg to request the emperor to grant Russian Poland full autonomy and its own parliament. All the members of the deputation are descendants of men who have been prominent in the history of Poland.

The general strike continues. All the shops are closed except those of the apothecaries, and also several bakeries, which the strikers ordered to be opened so as to prevent the starvation of the poor.

Disorders are reported at Sosno- vice, and a battery of artillery was sent there from this city.

Fear Jewish Massacre.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 11.—In many cities, notably St. Petersburg and Moscow, the better classes of the population are greatly disturbed, owing to the rumors of approaching attacks by the "Black Hundred," composed of the most ignorant types of the populace, which, according to these rumors, are scheduled to take place in St. Petersburg and in Moscow.

Stories are being industriously circulated that a regular St. Bartholomew massacre of Jews and intellectuals has been planned by the "Black Hundred" of St. Petersburg. It is declared that all houses containing Jews are being marked by a red cross.

So great is the alarm in St. Petersburg that General Dedulin, prefect of police, has issued an order referring to the rumors of a proposed attack on the Jews and the intellectuals, reminding the police that on them lies the responsibility for the maintenance of order and the safety of every inhabitant of the capital, without distinction of position, nationality, or faith. He instructs them to bring to trial the instigators of violence and all persons found posting seditious proclamations.

American Colony Is Alarmed.

Members of the American colony, including a number of naturalized Jews, appeared at the embassy in a greatly alarmed state to ask for advice and protection. Spencer Eddy, the American charge d'affaires, made them a speech, in which he tried to quiet their fears, saying that he did not regard an outbreak as possible, but he instructed them all, in the event of danger, to seek asylum at the Klenmichal palace, in Sergo street, in which the embassy is situated. Should the threatened outbreak occur Mr. Eddy will demand a military guard for the palace. The other embassies have been similarly besieged by alarmed foreign residents.

Plan Campaign of Terror.

The excited appeals which the League of Leagues and deputations of social democrats and other bodies are making to the town council and Count de Witte to prevent a massacre and the loud warnings published by the radical press which favors the organization of a national militia, have the appearance of an organized campaign to terrorize the public and to frighten the government into acceding to the demand.

The clergy throughout the country under instructions from the holy synod are doing all in their power to counteract the effect of such pernicious reports by explaining to the people in the churches the real meaning of the reforms.

Not Fomented by Government.

A long official communication published this morning denies that disorders in any part of the country have been fomented by the government. It says that even were the accusations against the government confirmed they would not form a pretext for the recent terrible occurrences. The government recognizes that it is its duty to remain quite impartial and to give its protection to all persons requiring it.

STANDARD OIL BEING PROBED

Federal Officials Are Investigating The Oper- ations Of The Concern In Chicago.

SWITCHING RATES ARE NOW LOWER

Allegations Are Made By Independent Dealers That They Pay $8 Per Car While The Trust Pays But $3.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Chicago, Ill., Nov. 11.—Rebates in the form of reduced switching charges have been investigated by the government officials, who are here to investigate operations of the Standard Oil company. Enough evidence already has been secured, it is said, to form the basis of criminal proceedings.

Dr. E. D. Durand, who was sent here by Commissioner Garfield of the bureau of corporations, has begun the investigation in earnest. With his assistants, Herbert D. Brown, S. D. Schindler, and F. L. Hawes, he is prepared to get at the bottom of railroad rebates said to have been obtained by the Standard Oil company. Most of this evidence will be secured from independent dealers in Chicago. Part of it will be gathered by the government agents and part will be submitted to the investigators at the bureau they have established on the third floor of the Stratford hotel.

Lower Rates for Standard Oil.

One complaint brought to the attention of Dr. Durand is that of an independent dealer who had to pay $8 switching charges on a car, while the Standard Oil company was charged but $3. When the dealer received the bill for the switching charges he read it as $3 and paid it. "Afterward he was informed by the railroad company that the amount should be $8."

"The $3 charge is for the Standard Oil company," he was frankly informed by the railroad agent.

"It is going to be a difficult thing to prove these charges that the Standard Oil company is getting rebates," one of the largest independent dealers said. "When Dr. Durand tackles the railroad companies he will find that he is up against a stone wall."

At Mercy of Railroads.

Several independent dealers said they had to pay what the railroads demanded and they realized that it was useless to complain against their gigantic competitor. They said they had difficulty in securing cars in the first place, and sometimes the cars were weeks on the way from Pennsylvania and Ohio, although such delay was unknown in the case of the Standard Oil company.

"It ought not to take more than a week to get a carload of oil from Cleveland," said one dealer, "but we have been obliged to wait frequently seven or eight weeks."

WITHOUT CONSENT OF THE CLERGY

Two Women in Garb Resembling That of Catholic Sisters, Have Been Soliciting Funds in City.

Upon his return from a ten days' visit in Dubuque last evening the Rev. Dean E. M. McGlinchey was informed that two Sisters of Charity, supposed to be of Catholic faith, had been soliciting funds for a hospital at Janesville private homes and business places. In all such cases it is the invariable custom to consult with the resident priests before carrying on work of the kind. Nothing of the kind was done in this instance and if the two women pretended to be identified with the Catholic church there is strong suspicion that their pretensions were false.

DAY OF THANKS IN YEAR 1849

PROCLAIMED BY M. DEWEY, THE JANESVILLE CONSTABLE

IN LIEU OF PROCLAMATION

By Governor N. Dewey Who Had Chosen to Ignore Festivities—Reminiscences of D. F. Sayre.

Under the caption "The Phases of a New Life in a New Land," the Evansville Review publishes a very interesting paper read before the Women's Literary club of that city by the Hon. D. F. Sayre of Fulton, Rock county's early days. Mr. Sayre announces his conviction of the truth of the old saying that "many of the ills of life go where the white man goes and stay where he stays." The crowd, regarded as a blessing by Halvor L. Skavlem but held as worth a bounty, dead, by the other supervisors, is cited as one of the ills brought to the new country by the paleface. And certain weeds with which the state is infested, are cited as constituting other of these evils. The writer recalls that in the fall of 1849 he rode eight miles, at the request of a doctor, to find a weed which he needed for one of his patients, a weed which covers the state today.

First Dandelion in Porter.
"The first dandelion in this region was brought the same year from Lexington, Ky., and planted in a garden in section No. 9 of Porter, for table use. The Indian papoose was never stung by a honey bee until the white man brought this maker of sweets to his country. But it was not all ill which the white man brought. The 4th of July and picnics came with him too." After describing the first Sunday school picnic and the first Fourth of July celebration in northern Rock county, at Fulton, on which occasion much time was devoted to making a flag out of white muslin, with the aid of red chalk, Mr. Sayre digresses from the topic in hand to tell this very entertaining anecdote:

The Judge Who Cribbed.
"Let me change the scene for a moment for the next 4th of July celebration in the same village, when an honorable judge of our circuit court delivered a soul-stirring oration, and the very next week the Janesville Gazette published a part of his oration side by side with one given by a well-known New York politician, Silas Wright. The Rock county judge had cribbed his speech from the New Yorker. It was some judge who afterwards in an impassioned speech before a Rock county audience, exclaimed, 'It was as plain as if the Almighty had written in large letters across his forehead, I-rod, fraud!'"

Annual Visit of Indians.
"Among the curious new sights which came to the eyes of your fathers, was the annual autumnal emigration of the Indians (Winnebagoes) from their reservation in the north to the lakes at Madison and thence down the Catfish river to its mouth in the Rock, thence up the Rock to Lake Koshkonong, for their yearly supply of wild rice. Their trail usually followed the river until it struck the northwest corner of the south half of section 13 of Porter, thence direct to the Indian Garden where the direct empties into the Rock. Those Indians who came in canoes, the women and children almost always camped on section 13, and then it was that white husbands saw the primitive and proper condition of mankind."

All Romance Vanished.
"No sooner had they paddled their canoes ashore than the women took the hatchets and began to build the teepees, wigwags we called it. They cut down the poles and planted them in the ground and covered them with matting, while the braves, their herds, seated themselves upon the ground."

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL.

Few People Know How Useful it is in Preserving Health and Beauty.
Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purposes.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables.

Charcoal effectively clears and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form or rather in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from the continued use of them, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

to smoke, to talk, say politics, and fix their traps. No one of us white men ever found our wives or sisters allowing us to do that. The wigwag put up, the begging began. Every family received a visit from one of the women; everything eatable was asked for, pork, flour, potatoes, butter and bread, and all were thrown into their blankets, a motley mess. The blanket probably had once been white, but now was the color of the wearer. One visit of the wives of those "noble red men," and all romance of Indian life was gone. The strongest imagination could never conjure up a Hiawatha, or even an old Neocomia. These parties came down the river all through the 50's and 60's, but the fast coming settlement of the white man and the failure of the wild rice on the lake, put a stop to them.

Opportunity's Voice Unheard.
"If your fathers had known as much in the fifties as they do now, you would be daughters of millionaires, but then you would not have been any happier and probably not so good. Such bargains in land! From $2.50 to $5.00 per acre in one year to $10 to $15 the next, and in a little while to $25, and a little later still your speaker had scarcely got a deed for land bought at $37.50 before he was offered $60 for it, and yet land was plenty. There was only a scarcity of two things, as I remember, which one really wanted. There was a scarcity of girls as I have said, and then there were no apples, even in Janesville. I remember well the first ones I ever saw—the apples I mean, not the girls—in Wisconsin. I bought two for five cents, and the goodwife and myself had a feast two days on apple dumplings."

Ninety Miles to a Party.
"But the girls. There were only a few unmarried young men around and they were anxious to find the girls. There was to be the first donation party in Southern Dane county at Albion in the winter of '49-'50. Every one must go. There were married women and plenty of children, but where was your wife to get a mature girl to go with her? Especially favored, he had been introduced to one during the summer and knew where she lived, a good long, weary ride off, and he rode ninety miles to take that girl to that party and take her home again. You may be sure that that part of the ride going for her and after he had left her at her own home, was not particularly enjoyable. I would I had time to tell of a little incident of that party."

Gazette Rebukes a Governor.
"The first Thanksgiving in Rock county ought ever to be remembered. Nelson Dewey was the first governor of the state. He was not supposed to be a religious man and he allowed his first year (1848) to go by without a Thanksgiving, and in his second year the month of November had come and no proclamation. There lived in Janesville a constable named Martin Dewey, and in the middle of the month the Janesville Gazette published a proclamation signed 'M. Dewey.' Everyone supposed that the constable had made a mistake in the letter M, so the good people made preparations and celebrated the first Thanksgiving in the county. The day was just past when the governor, ashamed as was thought, issued a genuine proclamation signed 'N. Dewey,' and fixed another day, and so we had two Thanksgivings (I think within a week of each other. We did not have the turkey nor the mince pies, but we did have pumpkin pies and as good a dinner as you can have nowadays."

TOLLEFSDRUD FAMILY BIENNIAL REUNION

Descendants of Pioneer Norwegians Who Settled in Rock County in the 40's, Gathered at Fossum Home.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Fossum in Plymouth within the past fortnight forty-seven descendants of the Norwegian pioneers in Rock county, who some years ago organized the Tollefsrud Family Association, have been enjoying the biennial reunion. All through the settlement to the south and southwest of Janesville the dwellers have been welcoming old friends and relatives.

Way back in 1844 Hans E. Tollefsrud and his wife whose home had been in Torpen Land, Norway, came to Wisconsin and the northwest corner of the town of Newark. Four years later came Hovel and Ingebrigt Tollefsrud, brothers of Hans, and their families and representatives of the family of Fossum. Hovel subsequently located at Wiota, LaFayette county. In 1866-7 two Tollefsrud sisters, who had up to that time remained in the old country, were persuaded to cross the ocean to make their home in the new land. Morit Johnson and Olave Systonell joined the family in Newark and Avon. Some years later Mrs. Johnson and her family moved to Richland county. Many of these pioneers have passed away but their children and grandchildren are scattered all over the western country.

The family association was formed several years ago while some of the original Tollefsrud settlers were still living. The pilgrimages back to Rock county are thoroughly enjoyed by both the pilgrims and the old friends and relatives whom they come to visit. John Q. Fossum, whose home was the storm center of the festivities, came to this country in 1867, a poor boy. Today he owns one of the finest farms in the county, fully equipped with modern buildings, including a steam creamery, well appointed barns, and a large and spacious residence. There were ample accommodations for the many visitors and the hospitality dispensed by host and hostess made every visitor rejoice that he had come.

UNCLE SAM WILL HAVE TO PURGE NAVAL ACADEMY

WILLIAM WOLF SMITH WRITES ON THE RECENT BRUTAL FIGHT.

OTHER WASHINGTON GOSSIP

What May Be Accomplished by Congress When It Convenes, Regarding the Army Canteen.

(By William Wolf Smith.)
Washington, D. C., November 9.—(Special correspondence.)—The death of Midshipman Branch of the Annapolis Naval Academy, from injuries received in a fist fight with Midshipman Minor Meriwether, Jr., will serve to recall to Congress what is believed to be the sole remaining brutal practice in vogue at this institution. For many years hazing was practiced there, as at West Point, with all the barbarities the devilish ingenuity of young brutes could conceive, under the pretense that this was the only way in which newcomers could be taught proper respect for their seniors. Army and navy officers in charge of these institutions winked at these practices, and the students grew more and more bold until it appeared to outsiders that they were running the academy instead of the officials. Finally matters came to such a pass that Congress took hold of the case and the brutalities revealed by testimony before an investigation committee much more resembled an account of the festivities of a tribe of Congo negroes than of the intellectual pastimes of civilized white men studying to become officers of the United States army and navy. I heard much of this testimony myself and it was almost blood-curdling. It developed, however, that hazing in this form was at that time confined almost wholly to West Point and Congress took such a decided stand that it has now practically disappeared from both institutions. By this, I mean "hazing" where a gang of rowdies takes one or two young cadets and puts them through a series of stunts calculated to exhaust them and to humiliate them. But there remains the "fast-fight" which being one of the cherished traditions of the academy will probably survive even after the shock attending the death of one of the participants in the latest exhibition of manly prowess. The rules for these fights are simple: if a cadet believes his "honor" has been injured by the actions of another, he challenges him to battle, the rule being that the contestants shall fight stripped to the waist for twenty-eight rounds, if they are able to go that far. When it is considered that most prize fights are limited to fifteen to twenty-five rounds, when men trained to an edge meet in the "squared circle," the brutality of expecting a couple of youths of less than twenty to fight twenty-eight rounds without any training, is striking. The injured youth was carried to his room and the affair "concealed" which is to say that while it was generally known, it was not reported officially, until the next day, too late to save his life.

Now what was all this about? Had Midshipman Branch insulted Midshipman Meriwether, by reflecting on his honor or his family or his friends or in any other way known to civilized beings? No! While engaged in his official duties he found that Meriwether was violating some of the regulations of the Academy, and in duty-bound as an officer reported him to his superiors. For this he was beaten to a pulp by Meriwether in the presence of a gang of his fellow students who doubtless applauded the punishment administered to a cadet whose only offense was that he did his duty as an officer and met his death like a man. It is possible, though not probable, that the participants in this disgraceful episode will be punished by expulsion, but if so, it is doubtful if this will be efficacious in breaking up the practice. No sooner will they be expelled than all the influence they can command will be exerted to secure their reinstatement, and unless precedent goes for nothing, those who can bring sufficient pressure to bear will be reinstated, while those who have less political influence will not. It seems as though Congress was due to stop prize fighting as well as hazing at our national educational institutions for there are other ways for gentlemen to settle their disputes rather than meeting in the ring in cold blood.

Representative Curtis of Kansas has contributed his mite to the war against whisky masquerading as a medicine. Mr. Curtis is the ranking member of the House Committee on Indian Affairs to the chairmanship of which he will succeed when Representative Sherman of New York retires. He also has Indian blood in his veins, of which he is not at all ashamed. Mr. Curtis believes the greatest curse to the Indians is whisky and does not see why the sale of whisky as such should be prohibited in the Indian Territory, while whisky with a little doctoring is sold as a medicine. He also seriously considers the advisability of a canteen service for Indian Territory, on the order of the old army canteen, where beer and light wines can be sold, but no whisky, believing in this manner the taste for strong drink, which is such a marked characteristic of the Indian, can be controlled.

There will probably be a strong effort made this winter to secure the restoration of the army canteen. Nearly all the officers of the army favor it on the ground that it makes life more attractive to the soldiers and is most effective in preserving discipline. Under present conditions the soldiers, not being able to get anything intoxicating in camp, when they do get to drinking outside, frequently take too much, and while under the influence of the vile concoctions served them in the dens which surround the forts, not only commit many crimes and misdemeanors but fall an easy prey to sharpers and their female accomplices. There is no doubt that the great number of desertions from the army is largely due to this cause, the soldiers becoming intoxicated away from their commands and remaining so until ashamed or afraid to return. Congress has so far been dominated by the influence of those who prefer to see the army demoralized and the nation's interests suffer rather than that the common soldier should be able to purchase beer under the nation's flag, and it will probably remain so.

The contest over the question of regulating railroad rates will begin in earnest with the meeting of the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce on the fifteenth of this month. The advocates of legislation are certain the House will pass whatever bill is presented to it, with the understanding it meets with the approval of the president. The stumbling block in the senate and the gateway to that body is through its committee on commerce. Attempts have been made to forecast the action of the committee but these go for little owing to the wide divergence of opinion among those who favor some action. No doubt a majority of the committee feel the time has come to give the country what it wants in this connection, but scarcely two agree on how this can best be done. The task of framing a bill which will command a majority of the republicans on the committee is, therefore, a difficult one. There is, however, good reason to believe it will be accomplished and that this session will see the desired legislation enacted. Senator Dikins, chairman of the committee, hopes to have the bill ready by December 1, but this is possibly too optimistic a view. If the committee can get it ready to report by the holiday recess sufficient time will be afforded to pass the measure during the coming session. On this subject Senator Elkins says:

"The committee of which I am chairman and which will frame a measure this winter is prepared for its work, and will meet two weeks in advance of the regular session for the purpose of preparing a bill. Every member of the committee knows exactly where he stands upon this question and I think that by December 1 we will have a bill ready for introduction. I regard decisive action this session as beyond question. I fought legislation of this kind last session because I thought that we hadn't enough time within which to act comprehensively. Now, however, we are prepared to deal with the case intelligently and conclusively. Personally I favor the plan of referring all rate disputes, passenger and freight, to the United States Circuit Court judges for decision. I would not give the Interstate Commerce Commission jurisdiction. I will work hard to have this plan adopted by the Senate and House."

IS YOUR COAT DUSTY?

You Probably Have the White Scab of Dandruff on It.

If your coat or shoulders have a white dust upon it, the chances are that it is from dandruff. The only way to permanently cure dandruff is to remove the cause, which is the germ. Every toilet table should have such a hair-dressing that contains also the destroyer of the dandruff and half falling germ. It stops all irritation, keeps the scalp sweet, pure and wholesome. HUNTING DEER BY AN OLD HUNTER

HOW TO AVOID ACCIDENTS IS TOLD CLEARLY.

HUNTING IN BY-GONE DAYS

Human Life Is Held Too Cheap—
In the Old Days It Was Respected by All.

(By an Old Hunter.)
Human life is now held too cheap in hunting and in football games. The reading of the great numbers killed and wounded annually during each hunting season have prompted me to write this essay.

A good hunter can have no justifiable excuse for mistaking a man for a deer. From 1840 to 1850 I hunted every season and killed many deer. During a period of ten years' hunting I never mistook a man or any animal for a deer.

The Alleghany mountains were full of deer and the woods full of hunters; but I never heard of a single man ever being shot for a deer. I heard of one young hunter from York State shooting at the end of an old log for a deer. Another fired at the corner of a mossy rock, but no man was killed in that region of long cars a deer. The head with its long ears and the white tail is always conspicuous on the deer; and the hunter who can not tell a man from a deer ought not to be allowed to run in the woods. If the following rules are observed no accident need occur among hunters:

The Gun.
Should be long, not less than a three foot barrel, and three feet four or six inches is still better. Never give a boy a short gun or revolver unless you want him to commit suicide. The Japs used long navy guns which gave them victory. There is great advantage in sighting a long gun. He who uses a short gun will miss the game more than half the time.

The hind sight should be rather coarse so that it can be seen clearly in the woods on a dark cloudy day. If fine sights are used, as for shooting at a small mark, you are sure to overshoot in the woods. The hind sight should be 14 or 15 inches from the eye, otherwise it will look blurry. The focus of a normal eye is one foot, at 65 or 70 it will be 18 inches. A ball should weigh at least half an ounce, if less you only wound the deer to the one or two weeks later and lose him. A leather cap should cover the lock and be long enough to cover the hind sight, preventing snow or rain from falling into it.

I never attempt to clean a gun when loaded as the lawyer did at Superior and killed himself only a few days ago.

When you put your gun into a wagon poke the muzzle in first, pointing to the hind end of the sleigh or wagon, lest it might go off and kill the horse. When you hand it out take it by the butt end, and never allow the muzzle to point towards you or any one else, whether loaded or not. Never fire into the brush at random at any kind of game, but wait until you see distinctly what you are firing at. Nothing is ever gained by firing haphazard at a bush after the deer has run away. Never fill up with booze and tobacco before you start out for a hunt; if you do you may shoot a calf, colt, or a man thinking they are deer.

My First Buck.
In December, 1840, the snow fell over three feet deep, and the deer came in to browse where wood was being cut. One morning I crawled up behind a brush heap where there were ten or fifteen deer feeding; I raised up and fired at the largest one, and broke his foreleg 6 or 8 inches above the knee. All ran up the steep mountain; I followed on the trail where he dragged his leg in the snow, but did not get another shot at him that day. The next morning I took the trail again, about 2 miles away high up on the side of the mountain I discovered him under a little hemlock having down. I took deliberate aim but my gun failed to go off. Snow had fallen into it and dampened the powder. I went home leaving the buck to enjoy himself that night, took the gun apart and cleaned it out, put a cap over the breach to protect it from the damp snow, and took the trail again. Next morning I found my buck a few yards from where I left him, too lame and sore to run out of sight. I fired and broke his neck, snaked him down the mountain, got help and got him home at dark. He weighed 215 pounds when dressed.

My Second Buck.
In August, 1841, I went to watch Rocklick by moonshine. About 11 o'clock p. m. three bucks, horns in velvet, came in. I fired at the leader and he fell in his tracks. I went to cut his throat, but the moment the point of the knife touched his neck, his heels came up knocking my knife out of my hands, stripping off the front of my pants and part of my vest and shirt, then up and run, all done before I had time to wink. The dog went after him and I heard him yelping far off up the mountain side, and that was the last of my noble buck.

My Third Buck.
In November, 1842, one afternoon I killed one small deer and started up the mountain. I had not gone far before I saw a small spike-buck looking over a large log down the hill at me. I took aim at the white spot under his chin, but hit one side of his month, knocking half his teeth out and making a large hole in his cheek. While I stood looking at him just as I was getting out my knife, he kicked the log loose, jumped over the log and ran like a young devil. It soon got dark and I could not trail him, as there was no snow. I hunted for him the next day but found no sign of him.

My Fourth Buck.
Early in November, 1842, I went out on a still hunt with a small dog which enabled me to follow a fresh track in the wet leaves, for his nose was a pretty good compass generally pointing towards the deer. Just on top of the mountain I sighted a 2-year-old buck in the witch hopes, his head partly towards me. I fired and struck him in the shoulder. He ran off limping and I followed him getting a glimpse of him now and then every half mile. Towards night a larger one came in company. I sighted them in a hemlock opening, the largest feeding, the lame one loping his head and ears. I fired at the well one dropping him in his tracks. The lame one did not run but looked at his mate, wondering what was the matter. I reloaded and felled the lame one in his tracks, breaking his neck. I hung the two fat bucks on one tree and started for home, but darkness soon overtook me and I ran into a swamp of water, had to back out and roost under a leaning hemlock for shelter. Two inches of sleet fell that night with the dog and I shivered. At daylight we made for home, got out of the woods at noon. I hunted three days afterwards before finding my bucks five miles away in the woods.

My First Fox.
Where there are plenty of deer there are plenty of foxes. Near where I had killed a deer was a large log across a small stream. I cut a hole in the log to fit the trap, drove a staple through the chain to fasten it, covered the trap and chain with leaves, put a piece of bait on either side of the stream 10 or 15 yards distant. On the third day after I had a large red fox with grey whiskers. On my next visit to the trap I got a coon. On my third visit a pheasant. On my fourth visit a hedgehog. On the fifth visit a noble skunk that perfumed the woods for miles around.

For the hunters,

— FORTY YEARS AGO —

Janesville Daily Gazette, Saturday, November 11.—Chicago Markets.—We have made arrangements by which we shall receive the Chicago markets daily. This dispatch will be made up between two or three o'clock each day, which will give our business men the very latest figures.

The Psalm of Labor.—The new factory of Harris & Co., the reaper factory of C. W. & Co., and the manufacturing of agricultural implements, are rapidly growing up and will soon be completed. They are among the substantial improvements that have been added to the business interests of Janesville this year, and it is hoped by others of a similar character next season. It is these and such as these that give life, energy and activity to our town, either west or east.

Suffrage Extension—A Question For the Courts.

The question of suffrage was first submitted to the voters of the state in 1849. A majority of the votes cast were in favor of it. The Constitution requires that no law extending suffrage shall be in force until it has been submitted to a vote of the people "at a general election, and approved of by a majority of all the votes cast at that election." The State canvassers construed this to mean that it must receive a number of the affirmative votes equal to the highest number of votes cast on any subject. The number of affirmative votes cast for suffrage extension was less than a majority of votes cast in another ballot for governor, and the canvassers held the suffrage extension was rejected.

Many good lawyers believe this decision was erroneous, and hold that only a majority of the votes on the question at issue are required. With this understanding, we learn that under the advice of the Hon. J. Allen Barber, a colored man offered his vote at Lancaster, last Tuesday; it was rejected, and a case will be made up and tried in the courts. Judge Barber is confident that suffrage extension was carried in 1849, and that the right has thus far been unlawfully withheld from colored men in the State.—Madison Journal.

The same opinion has been entertained by some of the lawyers in this city, and they have repeatedly expressed their desire to have the question tested before the supreme court.

Everybody seems to feel relieved that the election is over and that the animosities and personalities which such contests engender, have subsided, and everything is resuming its wonted course again. Business is tolerably lively, although there is not the activity in the trade that cooler weather would produce.

..COMING ATTRACTIONS..

"My Wife's Family" is the title of a merry musical comedy written by Stephens and Linton, which comes to the Myers Grand Monday, Nov. 13. This farce met with immediate success when presented last season and is duplicating that success again this year wherever seen. The story, which is a clever one, tells of the trials and tribulations of a young married man endeavoring to rid himself of his hire, the dainty comedienne, whose laugh-provoking portrayal of Queens, so was the emphatic hit of last season, will be seen in her delicious role, Joseph Miron, he of the sub-machine, George MacFarlane is still Count di Romano, while among the new faces are T. Henry Coot, a lyric tenor, and a London with his voice as a member of "The Prince of

Labor Notes

The organized workmen of New York are carrying on a vigorous educational campaign among the voters of the state on the issue of the "Labor Amendment" to the State Constitution, to be voted upon at the coming election. This amendment is intended to confer upon the legislature power to fix the rate of wages and hours of labor of all mechanics and laborers employed by the state. Its importance to workmen in general, and those of New York in particular, is therefore great.

Forty-five damage suits, growing out of the evictions of miners last winter were filed against the leading coal companies in the bituminous fields of Charleston, W. Va. The total amount of damages asked for is $112,000.

C. D. E. Eden of Fall River, Mass., has notified the 2,500 operatives of cotton mills owned by him that the 12 1/2 per cent cut in their wages would be restored on a profit-sharing plan.

The jig runners at East Colliery, of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company, struck recently when their duties were increased without extra pay. Seven hundred men and boys are affected.

It is reported that because of the scarcity of workmen, Western railroads have been forced to raise wages. Freight truckers, switchmen, sectionmen and clerks are benefited by the increase, which amounts to an average of $5 per month.

"A lion is known by his paw"
—seeing only his paw you could not be persuaded that it was a coyote or jack-rabbit. A store is known by its ads. A man who has never been in this city would be able to identify, unerringly, the enterprising and important stores simply from looking over the ads in this newspaper.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

"I know not whence I came,
I know not whither I go;
But the fact stands clear that I am here
In this world of pleasure and woe;
And out of the mist and murk
Another truth shines plain—
It is my power each day and hour
To add to my joy each day and hour."

"I know that the earth exists,
It is none of my business why,
I cannot find what it's all about,
I would not waste time to try.
My life is a brief, brief thing,
I am here for a little space.
And while I stay I would like, if I may,
To brighten and better the place."

"The trouble I think with us all
Is the lack of a high conceit.
If each man thought he was sent to this spot
To make it a bit more sweet,
How soon we could gladden the world
How easily right all the wrong,
If nobody shirked, and each day one worked
To help his fellows along."

"Cease wondering why you came—
Stop looking for faults and flaws.
Rise up today in your pride and cause!
I am part of the First Great Cause!
However full the world,
There is room for an earnest man.
It had need of me or I would not be—
I am here to strengthen the plan."

Ella Wheeler Wilcox contributed this choice little poem to one of the late magazines. It is so suggestive of personal responsibility, as well as of appreciation, that it is worthy of more than passing thought.

The intangible thing called society
is not confined to the four hundred,
of which every community boasts,
but in its various strata includes every individual.

The slums of the great city have a society of their own, and the denizens of these crowded quarters are at home in their miserable surroundings and usually satisfied with conditions.

The tramp, who roams over the country at will, belongs to a fraternity which satisfies the demands of his social nature and he is content with the aristocracy of tramp life.

But above these lower strata where money and culture contribute to ambition and where rivalry enters largely into the problems of every day life, men and women are constantly confronted with the question:
"Why am I here?"

"The fact that 'we are here,' without volition and without being consulted, is sometimes made an excuse for the popular theory that 'the world owes us a living' and any way to secure it is considered legitimate, but the rank and file of humanity is not influenced by this sentiment.

The little world, in which the most of us live our allotted time, is covered by a canopy whose sky line is within easy range of vision, and in this limited sphere the mission of the average life is accomplished or defeated.

The best reason that the most of us can give for spending a life-time in any particular locality is the fact that circumstances placed us there,
and conditions frequently beyond
our control have held us to the spot.

The man in the shop toils on at the same bench through the years of active service until old age overtakes him, working out a destiny without a thought of "why I am here," and the merchant stands behind the same counter, retiring from the field at the end of a busy life with the same spirit of content.

The man who steps off the train at the little wayside station which has been his home for half a century, finds in the humble surroundings his highest ideals, and he would not exchange his lot for a home on the avenue in the great city.

The thread of contentment, which runs through the little poem like a golden strand, is suggestive of life at its best. While the railroad, the telegraph and the press place the world in close touch by annihilating

distance, yet the fact remains that the little world where the individual is known, and where his mission is accomplished, is the community where his life is spent.

It is enough for him to know that "I am here," and here for a purpose, for the old Bible truth is gaining recognition that "no man liveth to himself."

While man's first duty is to himself, and to loved ones depending on him, the obligation does not stop here. The man who accomplishes the largest good is the man whose ear is open to the cry of the needy, and whose hand is outstretched to help them.

The cheery "good morning," and the word of sympathy or appreciation, cost but little in the way of effort, but they frequently bring joy to the heart and comfort to the discouraged spirit.

"The choicest eulogy ever pronounced
on the work of the Master is contained in the sentence: 'He went about doing good.' A work which may be emulated by every disciple,
however humble.

The field of opportunity is at the door, in every community and the people who give the best reason for "being here" are the people who do
the most to help humanity.

There is a reflex influence which brings its reward and lives expand in proportion to the spirit of helpfulness which prompts action.

A city becomes wide-bound and ceases to expand, when its energies are centered on self-protection and when men are treated as intruders who attempt to break into the sacred circle.

The spirit of enterprise which encourages growth and development is the progressive spirit of the age and where this spirit is lacking but little can be accomplished.

The world will be better when people realize more generally that life means more than existence, and that destiny is within the grasp of every toiler in the great arena.

THE CIRCUIT JUDGESHIP.

The meeting of the Rock County Bar Association last Thursday precipitates a campaign, six months in advance of election, which may lead to some entanglements that may result in losing the office of Circuit
Judge to Rock county.

Just why this action was taken at this early date is only understood by the members who participated, but it has resulted in forcing an issue which would otherwise have been dormant
until long towards spring.

The Rock county bar is composed of 66 members, 47 of whom participated in the meeting where a vote was taken on circuit judgeship. Jefferson and Green counties, equally interested, did not participate for the reason that these counties are likely to present home candidates.

The fact that Rock county presents
two, and possibly three candidates for the position, will be an incentive for the outside counties to work, and with a divided vote their chances for success are more than even.

The candidates brought out at the Bar Association meeting are all good men and any one of them representing the county in the field alone, without home competition, would win beyond question.

Judge Dunwiddie, appointed to succeed Judge Bennett, and six years ago elected to succeed himself, has long filled the office to the satisfaction of his constituency, and but for the premature action of the Bar Association would doubtless have been renominated without opposition.

Every judge makes more or less enemies and Judge Dunwiddie is no exception to the rule, but his honesty of purpose is never questioned.

Judge Sale has filled the office of Probate Judge so long and so acceptably that the people of the county regard him as a fixture with a life tenure of office at his disposal. While he received liberal endorsement at the hands of the Bar Association, this is not equivalent to either a nomination nor an election, for the primary law is an untried experiment.

Judge Fifield is a popular Municipal Judge and well qualified to fill the office of Circuit Judge, but in a three-cornered fight he stands no more show of nomination than either of the other two.

The simple fact is that Rock county has too many candidates by two,
and the attorneys have precipitated a contest which should have been deferred at least three months.

The action of the Bar Association is only significant as it applies to that organization. While its members come in direct contact with the judge of the circuit, the court over which he presides is the people's tribunal, and very few of the people are yet aware of the fact that a judge is to be elected next spring.

The Gazette would like to see Rock county retain the office and the paper believes that under all the circumstances Judge Dunwiddie is the most logical candidate to succeed
himself.

GREEN COUNTY BAR
IS NOT YET DECIDEDMonroe Times Says That They Are
To Hold Another Meeting
Very Shortly.

The Monroe Evening Times of Friday says: "Wm. Smith, E. D. Mc-Gowan and F. C. Durpee, Janesville attorneys, were here today to confer with Monroe attorneys regarding the situation and to head off any effort that may be made by Jefferson county attorneys to forestall the Janesville candidate. The Green county bar decided to withhold its endorsement of any candidate until another meeting can be held and local members are acting accordingly. Some of the members think it is worth while to hold off as there may be other interesting developments."

MAKING READY FOR
GREATEST GAME
OF THE SEASONWisconsin Will Be in the Pink of Condition When It Meets
Michigan.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., Nov. 11.—The final week of the preparation of the University of Wisconsin gridiron warriors for the crucial contest with Michigan next Saturday at Ann Arbor will be much more strenuous than the past week was, according to Trainer Kraenzlein. He said that the work administered during the fortnight interim between Minnesota and Michigan games was determined almost wholly with reference to the physical condition of the men, as that was considered to be the most important element of the hard game with the Wolverines. Coaches King and Holt put about all the football they knew into the men before the Chicago game and the contest with Minnesota. It has been said with some plausibility that the badgers lost to Chicago on condition; certainly they were not in the best of shape for that test. But the badgers were in splendid physical readiness for the sophomores and it is declared that condition was probably the determining element of the Wisconsin success at Minneapolis. It seems Kraenzlein should be the most authoritative official in the badge camp in the two weeks of preparation for Michigan. No importance, absolutely, should be attached to the wolf stories that have emanated from Wisconsin training quarters the past week. A wolf hence will find the players in fully as good condition as a week ago. It is apparent that the last week has been one of rest, of light practice approaching an idles-ness. Not one afternoon saw the entire eleven regularly out to six members of the team were absent. Some of them were under the temporary necessity of making up studies that were slighted during the hard weeks since the first of October. The factory, or several members of it, do not give football players much consideration and hold them closely to class-room requirements.

One of the disappointments at Madison this year has been the failure of Captain Vanderboom to exhibit the form he presented during the previous years of his playing career. Two reasons for this are the fact that he has been burdened with the work of captain and that he suffered an early-season injury in the game with the national guard eleven at Marinette. This injury kept him out of the scrimmage work until a day or two before the Chicago game
and it was announced that his cheek-bone and jaw was broken. The injury was exaggerated. Expectations were high that Vanderboom, the all-western halfback for two years, would shine in the big contests this year and that his name would monopolize
the detail accounts when Wisconsin's wins were narrated. "As early as the Notre Dame game in Milwaukee, however, it was commonly whispered
that Wisconsin would have more hope in the Chicago game with Capt. Vanderboom out than in, but he got into a few scrimmages, showed fair form and displaced Wrabetz, the veteran of two years, at left halfback, and is accredited with losing the Chicago game by insisting upon a change of signal when Wisconsin had the ball down to the Chicago ten-yard line and Melzner called for Roseth to make the required yard for "first down." Vanderboom insisted on taking the ball himself, was held for a loss and Melzner and other members of the team when they were "in the dumps" of the Chicago defeat. Doubtless a player ought not to be charged too severely for such an error committed in the excitement of a hard game, but it is the more readily repeated in view of the failure of Vanderboom to make the consistent gains expected of him this year. A bad spirit was shown by Wrabetz, whom some critics thought ought to have had Vanderboom's position, for after the return of the captain to the game Wrabetz discontinued practice. The star ground-gainer of the badgers has been A. J. Findlay of Aurora, Ill., who came here from the school that produced the well established athletic star, Mark Catlin of Chicago. It is believed here that Findlay is assured of all-western honors.

The new chemistry building of the University of Wisconsin has been formally opened.

Robert Stoeckly, a student in the Albion high school, becoming dissatisfied with his teachers, ran away to Chicago and enlisted in the army.
He has just been detailed for service
in the Philippine islands.

How Much of Your Life Is Spent in Trying to GET OUT OF THE FRYING PAN GETTING INTO THE FIRE

It requires but a small thing to put the average man or woman on a "frying pan." The loss of a good clerk, a good customer, a good tenant, a pocketbook or an aching tooth—any of these things is enough often to give us the "frying pan" experience. As a rule it requires but a small effort to readjust things. If it is your tooth, a call upon Dr. Richards will smooth up the trouble in short order. His prices are moderate and he will give you careful attention.

JANESVILLE VS. FORT ATKINSON

ON GRIDIRON AT ATHLETIC PARK THIS AFTERNOON.

VISITORS HAVE BRASS BAND

Much Enthusiasm Shown by Rival Rooters—Contestants Equal in Weight—Both Speedy.

Before a crowd of more than a thousand people the Janesville and Fort Atkinson high school football teams battled at Athletic Park this afternoon. The majority on the sidelines wear the blue of the home team, but are no less enthusiastic than those who display the red of the visitors. The rivalry is intense and the rooting has been unceasing since the players made their first appearance on the field. The Janesville aggregation is using its "sledge-hammer" yell and new gridiron songs to advantage, but the Fort Atkinson delegation as ever invaded Janesville. The red of the Fort school is much in evidence in ribbons, cane streamers, chrysanthemums and banners. A parade lead by the famous Fort goat was made through the streets.

Came by Special Train
The Fort Atkinson team and supporters came on a four-coach special train over the North-Western road, arriving in Janesville about half-past one. With players and band the crowd of visitors numbered about four hundred, probably as large a football delegation as ever invaded Janesville. The red of the Fort school is much in evidence in ribbons, cane streamers, chrysanthemums and banners. A parade lead by the famous Fort goat was made through the streets.

Very Evenly Matched
The two contesting teams are very evenly matched. In weight they are about equal and the records thus far made promise a close fight. The lineup is:

Janesville.....	Port Atkinson.....
C. Connors.....	M. Huppert.....
Tiernan.....	Curtis.....
Gooden.....	Cumiehm.....

Waterman.....	Sullivan.....
Cassidy.....	Brewer.....

Fred Hammonson of Fort Atkinson, a brother of Coach E. J. Hammonson, and Mr. McGraw of Whitewater are the officials.

Northwestern Employees Did Not Comply with Fort Atkinson Ordinance, and Were Arrested.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Fort Atkinson, Nov. 11.—Mayor Klein recently caused the arrest of four conductors for keeping the railroad crossings closed for more than five minutes. The Chicago and North Western Railroad company paid the fine, amounting to twenty dollars and costs. Since their arrest the railroad crews are paying more attention to the city ordinances.

Through Confessional Restitution.—About ten years ago Mrs. M. E. Gates of this city, while in Chicago, lost an expensive gold watch. On the inside of the case was inscribed her name and residence which at that time was Park Falls, Ill. Whether it was stolen or dropped on the street she could not tell. Last week she received a letter from a Catholic clergyman in New York saying he had a valuable piece of property belonging to her which had come to him through confessional restitution, and if she would correctly describe it the same would be forwarded to her at once. Mrs. Gates described the property and she now has the watch unharmed.

International Live Stock Exposition, Chicago, December 16th to 23rd.

In order to arrange for better facilities in handling the large attendance anticipated for this great annual event and on account of the inability of the builders to complete the magnificent new amphitheatre on time, it has been found necessary to postpone the Exposition until the dates above mentioned. All of the events advertised will be held on the days of the week corresponding to the dates arranged for the previous week. All preparations are being made to make the event one long to be remembered. The change in the date will bring it at a season of the year when it will no doubt be more convenient for a larger number to attend.

MAJESTIC BAKING DEMONSTRATION

One Week---Monday, Nov. 13th, to Saturday, Nov. 18th

We heartily invite our friends to call any day during the above mentioned week and we will demonstrate the superior qualities of the

New Majestic Malleable and Char- coal Iron Ranges

The MAJESTIC MALLEABLE and steel range as formerly turned out by the Majestic people has been considered throughout the entire country par-excellence, and far ahead of any other range made. But with the NEW CHARCOAL IRON BODY in place of steel, making it double its value, and the fact that it is the only range in existence made of Malleable and Charcoal Iron, you can readily see that if quality is considered, the Majestic leads by a big margin. WE WANT YOU TO CALL at our store during this week, and let us explain this new feature:—CHARCOAL IRON BODIES; let us explain why it is the best material for range bodies, and incidentally, why it is not used on other ranges. We want you to call if you intend to buy or not, as the information gained will serve you in the future.

HANDSOME SOUVENIR--FREE

As long as they last, we propose to give to each prospective customer a neat souvenir, something that has not been offered before. If you intend to buy, call early and get one of these souvenirs;

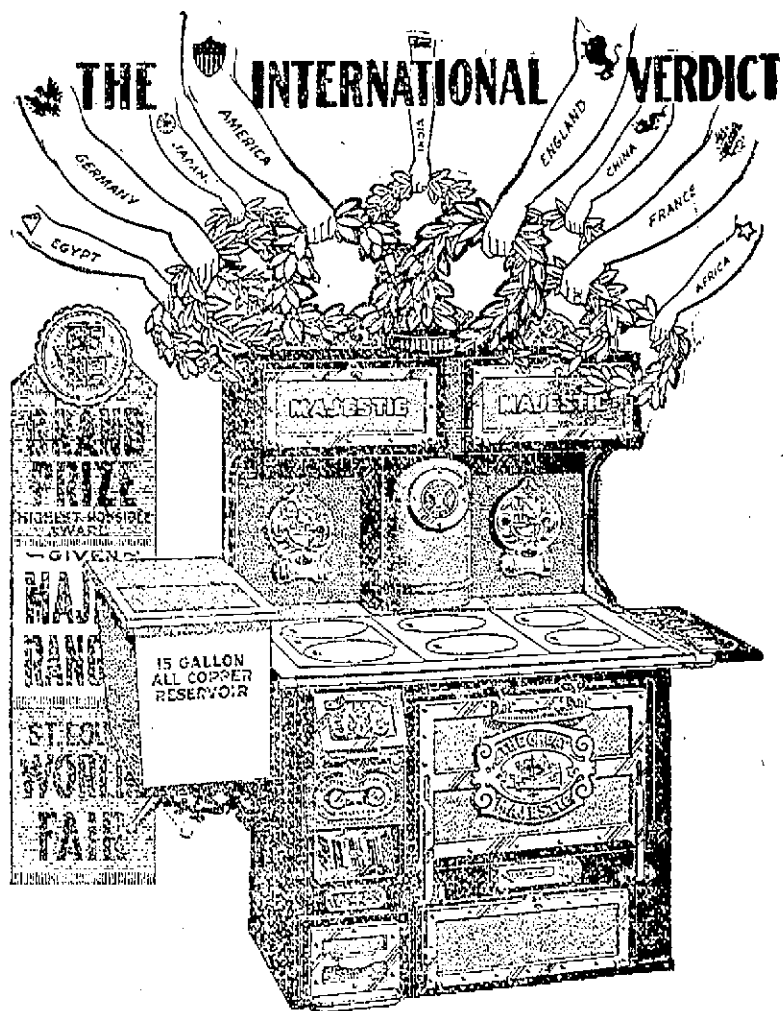

HOT COFFEE AND BISCUITS--FREE

Come any day during this week and have buttered hot biscuits and hot coffee. Biscuits baked on a Majestic in three minutes while you wait.

HANDSOME SET OF WARE--FREE

With every range sold during this Demonstration we will give absolutely FREE one set of Majestic ware worth every cent of $7.50. This ware will be on exhibition at our store. Everything useful, ornamental and durable. Come in and see it, and you will agree with us that it cannot be bought for a cent less than $7.50, and it is cheap at that.

COME IN ANY DAY, YOU ARE WELCOME WHETHER YOU INTEND TO BUY OR NOT.

MAJESTIC RANGES' SOLD IN ALL OF THE ABOVE COUNTRIES.
